Is it ever right to fight?

It is ok to use violence to protect and defend the innocent

If someone attacks you because of your beliefs, fight back

Religious leaders would make better generals than trained soldiers

Using violence to solve problems is only a temporary solution

Soldiers who follow orders to kill are not morally responsible

If God tells humans to fight, they are not morally responsible for their actions

Violence breeds hatred and resentment and creates more problems than it solves

Sometimes using force is a necessary last resort, such as against dictators
