

USEFUL WEBSITES FOR PRIMARY RE

As a teacher these may be your first port of call for support. Many schools and individuals are members of these organisations. Check if your school is a member so you can access all they have to offer. This list is by no means exhaustive but it provides a starting point. We will add to it over time.

The list can be downloaded as a whole, but many of you will want to download a particular section.

However, if you would just like to start small these are five websites we suggest you might look at first.

*When we use the term RE we intend to include Religion, Values and Ethics (RVE), Wales, Religious and Moral Education (RME), Scotland and religion and worldviews education in all sectors.

BBC Bitesize

A series of short programmes on festivals, people and stories from religious and non-religious worldviews.

www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/subjects/zmdsg2p (3-5 year olds).

www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/subjects/zxnygk7 (5-7 year olds).

www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/subjects/z7hs34j (7-11 year olds).

BBC Teach

Range of films including Religions of the World stories, Treasure Champs stories and My Life My Religion series.

www.bbc.co.uk/teach/topics/cmmp3ye818mt

RE:Online

A website from Culham St Gabriel's that seeks to provide subject knowledge, connect different parts of the RE community and provide thought provoking material for teachers in the form of online webinars, blogs, research for the classroom, resources and professional development.

www.reonline.org.uk

Culham St Gabriel's E-learning

Culham St Gabriel's Free short e-learning courses. Start with Beginners teachers 1-3 and then move onto others starting with the introductory courses and then the digging deeper courses.

courses.cstg.org.uk/

NATRE

The National Association of Teachers of RE is dedicated to supporting and empowering professionals in the field of Religious Education (RE). With a strong commitment to educators across diverse schools and institutions, NATRE provides invaluable resources and comprehensive guidance at every stage of their career journey. NATRE advocate for teachers and provide comprehensive resources for their thousands of members. There are also many resources for non-members. They also hold the annual Strictly RE conference.

<https://www.natre.org.uk/>