

An Interfaith Reading List

Produced for Inter Faith Focus Week

Citizenship, Interfaith and Social Action – a resource from the Faith & Belief Forum

This is a really helpful set of resources designed with educators in-mind. The teacher guides are clearly laid out with links to a range of resources for children to engage with as part of their learning.

<https://faithbeliefforum.org/resources/citizenship-interfaith-and-social-action/>

Research and effectiveness of interreligious dialogue and ecumenism interventions

This is an incredibly thorough and exhaustive global survey of interfaith activities. It also helpfully, and in considerable depth, seeks to set out different forms and styles of interfaith activity.

<https://eppi.ioe.ac.uk/CMS/Portals/0/Porticus%20Map%20Synthesis%20200721.pdf>

The Moral Imagination, by John Paul Lederach

A beautifully written book by one of the leading living Peace theorists and conflict resolution practitioners. More than that, Lederach takes seriously the role of religion in community relations, giving insight into the power of interfaith processes for building peaceful societies.

Building community relations through research informed educational practice in schools

A concisely written paper which makes the case, through case study examples, for the teachers and schools being instrumental for building positive community relations. Helpful links are also included.

<https://www.cstg.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/sites/4/2023/01/FINAL-Building-Community-Relations.pdf>

Connect: A Youth Interfaith Action Guide

A really helpful publication which features all kinds of case studies from around the UK of interfaith projects which have involved young people. It also includes helpful checklists for people planning their own interfaith activities.

<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/uploads/Connect2018.pdf>

